DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kenna (EPO 0421485).

Kenna discloses a method for fusing a first vertebra to a second adjacent vertebra comprising providing an implant comprising a body having first and second opposite surfaces (see figures 2-3), wherein each of the surfaces includes at least one protruding member, 5, for securing the body to an adjacent vertebra, each protruding member of the implant having a profile including a generally arcuate portion that encompasses more than one hundred and eighty degrees, and each of the surfaces and protruding members includes a bioactive coating, 7 (see figures 1-4). In addition, each member is disposed about an axis of symmetry lying on the corresponding surface such that each member protrudes beyond the height of the corresponding surface along the axis of symmetry (see figures 2-3).

The method further includes forming at least one keyway in the first vertebra corresponding to each of the at least one protruding members on the first surface and at least one keyway in the second vertebra corresponding to each of the at least one protruding members on the second surface, wherein each keyway has a profile including a generally arcuate portion that encompasses more than one hundred and eighty degrees; and inserting the implant between the first vertebrae and the second vertebra in a manner so that each protruding member slides into the corresponding keyway, such that fusion of the vertebrae is achieved without a bone graft (see figure 4 and column 4, lines 21-22, and column 6, lines 4-17).

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over by Kenna (EPO 0421485).

Kenna discloses the claimed method except for having a plurality of protruding members with corresponding keyways. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to construct the implant device of Kenna having a plurality of protruding members with two corresponding keyways, since it has been held that mere duplication of the essential working parts of a device involves only routine skill in the art. St. Regis Paper Co. v. Bemis Co., 193 USPQ 8.
